Eric Ortinau, M.D. Treats the Entire Taylor Family of Ottawa

Ottawa, Illinois – The girl's of the Taylor Family in Ottawa knock on wood when they talk about Eric Ortinau, M.D. of Rezin Orthopedics and Sports Medicine. Even though they know they will receive great care from the physician, the idea of coming back to Rezin Orthopedics and Sports Medicine means a sports injury, fall or mishaps of some sort.

Each daughter-Megan, Amanda and Allison have all been treated by Dr. Ortinau once, if not multiple times, all for various injuries. Even parents Ed and Jackie Taylor have been patients of Dr. Ortinau at one point.

"We just receive really good care, so we continue to come back. We should be on a frequent flyer plan with Dr. Ortinau!" Ed, the father laughs.

The Taylor family has been seeing Dr. Ortinau for over a decade.

Like the Taylor family, many area families continue to count on the orthopedic care that Rezin Orthopedics and Sports Medicine provides.

"I am always very grateful when one of my patients refers a family member to me, Eric Ortinau, M.D. said. "It's nice to know that they are pleased with their experience and care."

For Megan Taylor, a specific basketball injury resonates with her after falling on an ankle she previously hurt.

The injury occurred on a Friday afternoon. Jackie, Megan's mom, immediately called Rezin Orthopedics and Sports Medicine. Dr. Ortinau stayed in Morris until the Taylor's arrived.

"It said a lot about Dr. Ortinau," Jackie said. "He knew the history of the injury and was more than willing to fit Megan into his schedule at four o'clock on a Friday afternoon without an appointment. That said everything to me as a mother."

With three athletic daughters, Ed and Jackie Taylor knew that sports injuries were bound to happen.

"It was hard for the kids because they wanted to be on the move playing sports," Jackie said. "We never hesitated to come back to Dr. Ortinau because he was familiar with our family, their history and always brought things down to their level."

Drawing diagrams to explain their injuries, Dr. Ortinau knew it was important to talk to the Taylor girl's so that they understood their own injuries.

"These girls are athletes, so explaining the principles behind their injuries and treatments was very important," Ortinau said. "We have always worked together to develop a personalized treatment plan to get them back on track and return them to the game."

And the Taylor girls are not the only members of the family to be treated by Dr. Ortinau. Both parents Ed and Jackie have individually been treated for falls and bumps.

Knowing the importance's of treating a variety of injuries, Eric Ortinau, M.D. focuses his practice on hand/upper extremity conditions, sports medicine and total joint arthroplasty, including mini-incision joint replacement techniques.

"One of the many rewards of being a general orthopedic surgeon is having the opportunity and training to care for entire families like the Taylors. It's been a privilege and a pleasure to take care of them for the past 11 years."
